Vesuvius in Eruption.

Many persons regard a volcanic eruption merely as a magnificent awe-inspiring spectacle. They forget what a terrible disastrous force it is. Both those places are vividly impressed in every spectator of Lyman H. Howe's intensely realistic reproduction of the recent eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in Barre opera house on Tuesday, Nov. 8. These scenes open showing the ascent up vast slopes of dead, gray, desolate lava. Above it gleams the red and angry volcano, vomiting fire, death and destruction on hundreds of people with whom the love of home is stronger than the fear of death. Arriving on the brink of the crater, the pictures reveal that yawning, fiery, bottomless pit. It is looking into the gates of death, into the mouth of Hell! Then receding from it is shown the red, seething, flaming lava, throwing off steam, engulfing, or rather devouring everything in its way, but not stopping a moment. On comes the molten mass—raging—roaring—terrific. The sky becomes more terrifying. The vast clouds of smoke in the crater roll over and over in majestic masses, puff tumbling over puff, as though the volcano could not get rid of it fast enough.

TO PLAN CATHEDRAL.

English Architects Going To Washington.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Plans for the national cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul are to be drawn by Henry Vaughan and George F. Bodley, two well known architects of England. Their selection was made at a recent meeting of the Cathedral Chapter, the Episcopal society of this diocese having immediate supervision over the building of the cathedral. The architectural style of the new cathedral will be of pure Gothic. No competitive designs will be submitted, the chapter having instead decided upon the architects, who will be given practically a free hand in the drafting of the plans. Until the arrival in this country of the architects, no limit of cost will be fixed. It is desired that they shall first study the site of the cathedral, which is on the brow of Mt. St. Alban, and commands a splendid view of the Capitol, before deciding upon this important detail. The money for the cathedral is being raised by Bishop Satterlee.

FOUR MEN KILLED.

Result of a Fight Between Robbers and Officers.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 2.—Four men are dead as a result of a fight Wednesday near Kennewick, Washington, between officers and two men who had robbed two stores in Kennewick. The officers were led by Sheriff A. G. McNeil of Prosser, who came on the robbers unawares in the bush. They were five or six in number and at once commenced firing. Marshal Michael Glover of Kennewick was instantly killed and Joseph Halsey, his deputy, was fatally wounded. Sheriff McNeil was shot in the arm and leg. After being shot the sheriff emptied his gun at the robbers, killing one and finally capturing another.

The gang of burglars is thought to have had a rendezvous at Kennewick for the purpose of holding up a Northern Pacific train.

The captured robber says he is Robert Layton, aged 16 years. He revealed the identity of the dead desperado as Jacob Lake, recently a convict in the penitentiary at Walla Walla.

Layton says his home was formerly in Florence, Colo.

Always Fit on Thoroughfare Bridge.

None of the officials of the railroad company was called yesterday. The most important testimony thus far adduced was that of Bridge Tender Stewart and Mrs. Elizabeth Driscoll. The former testified that the grooves in the rails over the draw did not always connect, this being the case in hot weather, and it was then necessary to knock them into place. Mrs. Driscoll said that the train was running at a high speed when it struck the trestle and another witness said that there was no apparent slackening of speed when the cars rushed onto the bridge.

FLAYS HEARSTLatter Pilloried in Speech by Secretary at Utica

NOT WHOLLY GUILTY

of the Murder of McKinley—Speaking With President's Authority He Asserts Colgoz Was Taught
His Lesson by Hearst.

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 2.—A bitter denunciation of William R. Hearst, which the speaker said, had the full and complete endorsement of President Roosevelt, was delivered in a public address here tonight by Secretary of State Elihu Root.

At the same time Mr. Root paid an eloquent tribute to Charles E. Hughes, and announced that he was authorized to say that the President greatly desires the election of Mr. Hughes as the Governor of New York.

"I say to you, with President Roosevelt's authority," said Mr. Root "that he regards Mr. Hearst as wholly unfit to be Governor, as an insincere, self-seeking, unscrupulous man, who is trying to deceive the workmen of New York by false statements and false promises; and I say to you, with his authority, that he considers that Mr. Hearst's election would be an injury and a discredit alike to honest labor and to honest capital."

"I say, by the President's authority, that in penning these words, with the horror of President McKinley's murder fresh before him, he addressed Mr. Hearst specifically in his mind. And I say, by his authority, that what he thought of Mr. Hearst then, he thinks of Mr. Hearst now."

"Only once has this method of incendiary abuse wrought out its natural consequence—in the murder of President McKinley. For years, by vile epithet and vile cartoons, the readers of the Journal were taught to believe that McKinley was a monster in human form, whose taking off would be a service to mankind."

"What wonder that the weak and excited brain of Colgoz answered to such impulses as these? He was answering to lessons he had learned '—' and the foremost of the teachers of these lessons to him and his kind was and is William Randolph Hearst and his yellow journals."

"Is there no one left who loved McKinley? Are there no business men left in New York who cannot see with satisfaction honors heaped upon the man who is not guilty of McKinley's death?"

"The same kind of teaching is being continued now month by month and day by day by Hearst journals. Its legitimate consequence, if continued, must be either weak dupes playing the role of Colgoz; or other McKinleys stretched upon the biers; discord and bloody strife in place of the reign of peace and order throughout our fair land."

EVENING JOURNAL

REPLIES TO ROOT

Says: "As a Rat Would Burrow in Any Grave, So Root Would Desecrate
Any Grave."

New York, Nov. 2.—Hearst's New York Evening Journal today devotes itself to an attack of Secretary Root, who exonerated the Democratic candidate last night at Utica. The editorial says Root is a servant of Ryan and says that will hire him. Referring to Root's charge that Hearst was partially responsible for the murder of President McKinley, the paper says:

"As a rat burrows in any grave, so Root would desecrate any grave. Ryan told him to and he paid him to."

WOMAN STARTED
NEW YORK RIOT

Called on Strikers to Attack Police and Chauffeurs in Streets—"Go at Them Like Men."

New York, Nov. 2.—Riots between the police and the striking chauffeurs occurred all over the city yesterday, and the most serious fight, in which Roundman F. J. Dunn was badly hurt, was started by a young woman. An automobile was passing Eighth avenue and Thirty-sixth street last night when a young woman on the sidewalk urged the crowd to attack the police.

"Will you stand this? Go at them like men," the woman is said to have shouted. Instantly the cry was raised, "Down with the strike breakers. Kill the police if they interfere." The crowd of 500 persons surrounded the automobile, and the driver jumped from his seat.

A second auto appeared about the same time, and stones, sticks and bad eggs were thrown at it from every direction. Dunn led one of the squads of police. One stone cut off part of one of his ears. The police made repeated efforts to arrest men who appeared to be ring-leaders, but such time a man was caught he was rescued by companions. By a vigorous use of their night sticks the 100 policemen finally drove the rioters from the neighborhood.

A lively encounter took place in the afternoon at Eighth avenue and Forty-seventh street, when several strikers dragged a driver of a New York transportation company brought from his seat. The vehicle continued at full speed, but came to a sudden stop several blocks away, when it crashed into a lamp post. The driver escaped from the mob.

There is no settlement in sight of the trouble, and practically all the New York transportation company's automobiles are still tied up.

HABITUAL DRUNKARDS

Bill Introduced in Legislature to Determine Who Are—Senate Adjourns to Monday—Bill Amending Barre Charter Passes House.

Montpelier, Nov. 2.—The House of Representatives today by an overwhelming vote killed the bill constituting eight hours as a maximum day's work for public employees of the state, county or town. Only seven members voted for a third reading of the bill, while 150 voted against it. On call of Mr. Graton of Burlington a yeas and nays vote was taken. The seven representatives voting for the bill were Cowles of Alburgh, Graton of Burlington, Lavigne of Colebrook, Ledy of Underhill, Malone of Fair Haven, Pierce of Hardwick and Tennen of Pittsford. About 75 members of the House were not present or not voting.

What Is an "Habitual Drunkard"?

Among the bills presented in the House today were the following: By Mr. Hayden of Jericho, providing a fine of $5 for first offense of intoxication, with alternate imprisonment, $15 for each subsequent offense, or 30 days in jail, or both; prisoners may be employed on public highways; three arrests to constitute a "habitual drunkard," involving treatment at the Waterbury insane asylum.

By Mr. Senter of Montpelier, by request, making salaries of state librarian and first assistant $2,900 and $1,500 respectively.

By Mr. Dewart of St. Albans City, establishing a state surgeon's commission.

By Mr. Jackson of Barre, providing for the discharge of persons on probation.

By Mr. McCuen of Vergennes providing towns voting no license may grant sixth class liquor licenses for summer hotels.

The following bill of importance was introduced in the Senate today, providing for investigation of the water resources of the state, and for determining the best methods of securing their economic development; it appropriates $500 for the year 1907, the same for 1908, to be used to determine the available water power of the state. The governor is empowered to enter upon such an investigation provided the U. S. government will expend a like amount.

Responding to the gentle persuasion of Speaker Cheney, the House decided to come back this afternoon to do some routine work.

Approved by the Governor Today.

H. 11. An act to amend section 1146 of the Vermont statutes (P. S. 1392) relating to justices' suits.

Haggood Dismissed from House.

Myron J. Haggood, the returned member from the town of Peru, was yesterday afternoon dismissed from the House because of inability to hold his seat; it being claimed and not satisfactorily refuted that he was a fourth class postmaster at the time of his election on September 4. Mr. Haggood stated that he sent his letter of resignation on September 3, but the postoffice department informed the committee on elections that the letter was not received in Washington until September 10, six days after a letter mailed on September 3 should have reached its destination. It was furthermore found that Mr. Haggood's name appeared on official documents as postmaster until several weeks after the election.

The attempt was made yesterday afternoon to lay the matter over, the motion being made by Mr. Senter of Montpelier, but it failed. On motion of Mr. Darling of Chelsea, Mr. Haggood was allowed the courtesy of speaking to the House. The man from Peru spoke at some length, bringing out nothing new. Mr. Plinn of Springfield said that the House had settled the question as to the eligibility of fourth class postmasters to serve. He regarded that Mr. Haggood had not resigned as postmaster in proper form. Consistency demanded that Mr. Haggood's seat be declared vacant, and he made the motion that the recommendation of the elections committee be upheld. Mr. Senter interjected the elections committee as to Mr. Haggood's attitude before the committee in the matter of swearing as to his resignation. Mr. Alexander, the chairman of the committee, said Mr. Haggood did not and would not testify before the committee that he had resigned on the date mentioned by him.

When the motion to sustain the committee was put, Mr. Haggood was declared out of order when he asked for the yeas and nays vote. Mr. Senter came to the rescue, however, and asked for the yeas and nays vote. The roll call resulted in 151 votes in favor of the unseating of Mr. Haggood and 11 votes against vacant. So Mr. Haggood's seat was declared vacant.

New Automobile Bill.

The gentleman from Middlebury, Mr. Cady, came out with a new automobile bill, yesterday afternoon. It repeals the present law; goes into detail as to operators of autos, requiring that they be compelled to state experience in running machines, if ever convicted of over-speeding, if suffering from mental or physical infirmity, etc.; it regulates the rate of speed; enjoins caution and due regard for the rights of travelers on other conveyances. The fees are to be paid quarterly.

By request, Mr. Senter of Montpelier introduced a bill to enable the sale of the state arsenal and land at Montpelier.

Senator Howland's Bill.

Among the bills introduced in the Senate was one by Senator Howland to remedy the non-payment of rent of safes in safe deposit companies, banks and banking institutions; it provides for the opening of safe deposit boxes in case of non-payment of rent. Senator Stafford of Lamoille county presented a bill to regulate the salaries of the superintendents of the state prison, the house of correction and the industrial school, to be fixed by the directors or trustees not greater than $2,000 per year, with rent and subsistence for themselves and families on the premises of the institutions.

Senator Manning of Rutland introduced a bill providing for an industrial and arts and science school.

The time for introducing bills has been extended to November 5 in the Senate.

The joint temperance committee will hold a public hearing on proposed changes to the liquor law Thursday evening, November 8.

The first estimate of the number of visitors in Montpelier is now considered low; there were certainly more than 1,000 from outside the city.

Superintendent Lovell of the state prison at Windsor was among the visitors yesterday. He says that he has twelve life prisoners at the present time.

Senator Howland of Washington county and Roberts of Bennington county were appointed in the Senate yesterday afternoon to make arrangements to visit the Barre granite quarries.

The capital punishment matter is a brewing in the House and is likely to break out at any moment. A pamphlet was distributed yesterday purporting to show that Maine is planning to go back to killing people for murder instead of putting them in prison for life.

The eight-hour law for public employees narrowly met death yesterday afternoon, as it was reported unfavorably from committee. Its sponsor, Mr. Graton of Burlington, asked for the yeas and nays on the question of passage, but withdrew the request when it was decided to put the bill over to a later date.

John Senter had a feeling for Mr. Haggood when he asked that the hearing on the eligibility of the member from Peru be put over. He said that he didn't like to have a funeral come on Fourth of July, at the same time looking around at the great crush of visitors.

On a petty bill regarding the erection of headstones over graves of unknown persons, on the passage of which a great deal of discussion arose, Mr. Jackson of Barre City moved that the bill be amended to read that the headstones be set by the town or city, not satisfactorily refuted that he was a fourth class postmaster at the time of his election on September 4. Mr. Haggood stated that he sent his letter of resignation on September 3, but the postoffice department informed the committee on elections that the letter was not received in Washington until September 10, six days after
